

Jacob K. Javits Fellowship Program

The Jacob K. Javits Fellowship Program provides financial support for students who have demonstrated (1) superior ability and achievement, (2) exceptional promise, and (3) financial need to undertake graduate study leading to a doctoral degree or a master's degree in which the master's degree is the terminal highest degree in the selected fields of study in the arts, humanities, and social sciences. Applicants must be entering graduate school in academic year 2007-08 or not have completed the first full year of any doctoral or masters degree study. This year the program notes a particular interest in students studying less commonly taught languages, non-American history, or criminology. A Javits Fellow receives annual support for up to the lesser of 48 months or the completion of their degree. The fellowship consists of an institutional payment and a stipend based on the fellow's financial need as determined by the Federal Student Assistance Processing System.
